FRIDAY

NOVEMBER 19, 1909

When I am handling a thought I am never easy until I have bounded it, north, south, east and west.—Lincoln.

Everything you do toward making a united community helps Honolulu grow.

Perhaps the Democrats have a candidate for the Supreme Bench if all others fail.

Too much citizen labor on the part of the people of Hawaii is quite impossible for several years to come.

Financial supremacy of the Pacific with a steadily dwindling number of American ships is a delusion.

Some planters should have eaten the dinner first if they wanted to be sure to reach an agreement on any vexed question.

Defense Kildoo's trip about the Territories is timely, not because he needs it, but the people want him to come home.

One thing can be said in criticism of our College of Hawaii. Not enough people visit it to learn what is going on.

As usual, the public got its first information on the latest big deal in the local market through the columns of the Bulletin.

If some of those Christian Science leaders love one another they must be working under the absent treatment system just at present.

What Hawaii is facing is not so much a scarcity of coal as a scarcity of people who are willing to go out into the fields and raise cane.

How does the Promotion Committee reach the conclusion that a man with a record can improve the good name of Hawaii among tourists?

If Hatfield's comes were in touch with the way things move in Honolulu, we should be able to hear it tooting long before we could see it.

When Hawaii gained protection for its sugar it began to build sugar mills, so why should it not build ships for its own passengers and freight?

Let us give thanks that the President did not hesitate to act promptly for the protection of American citizens in foreign lands. May it ever be thus.

It is taken for granted that every manager goes back to his field pledged and heartily in favor of America labor and the American system of development.

If automobile racemen are not millionaires now, they are in a fair way to be if business and prices keep up. But who cares so the people have it to spend?

Anything Honolulu offers an investor may be put down as about one-hundred and fifty per cent better than anything that can be found in any other part of the world.

After they get through with the cheaper stocks, the list of desirable investments offered in Hawaii will still be attractive and worthy the support of men loyal to Hawaii.

No one wants to go to the Supreme Bench according to the say-so of nearly everyone mentioned, so it is still a matter of doubt as to who expected to slide in under cover.

Records are being lowered all over the country, but the athletic stunt that will attract the most attention will be bringing down the records supposed to be at the top of Mount McKinley.

Planters highly pleased and surprised at what they found the College of Hawaii doing must remember that public schools must be liberally supported to supply material for the college to develop.

To hear some people talk about the glory of foreign ships one might suppose the local people who invested at large for three years; three to be elected each year after the first election. The candidate will also be nominated by not less than 5,000 voters. The same system of nomination applies to the school commission candidate.

The new charter also provides for a finance commission to supervise the conduct of affairs of City Hall, the publication of a City Record and the approval by the civil service commission of the fitness of heads of departments before their appointment by the Mayor.

It will be noted that Boston wants the privilege of "recalling" its officials, a system of popular expression once deemed scabious that is fast fading away throughout the country.

THE POLICY OF SECRECY.

startling that the Bishop will bring out the resignation of Justice Wilder in the interests of a particular candidate is utterly unjust.

Will eastern publications please quit calling our town "Prison?"

We do not deny that we are a "frisky" people, but we live in a city that was named to commemorate the great virtues of a distinguished saint, many of whose virtues are San Francisco's stock in trade.

Establish a rate of wages for the position and then you'll get the system that will eventually prevail in our main industry. This, coupled with the extension of the contract system of profit sharing, will put the labor situation on a more permanent basis, and no one will have a right to complain.
